

Print this page Close

Gwinnett Place CID ups ante with Chamber group

By Patrick Fox
The Atlanta Journal-Constitution

6:05 p.m. Thursday, March 11, 2010

The Gwinnett Place Community Improvement District has increased its funding commitment to a local economic development initiative.

The board voted unanimously to add $2,000 to the CID's annual contribution of $20,000 to Partnership Gwinnett, the economic development arm of the Chamber of Commerce.

CID Chairman Mark Williams said the strong working relationship with Partnership Gwinnett is vital to the continued success of greater Gwinnett Place.

"We are working harder than ever to plan and deliver the much-needed improvements necessary to strengthen Gwinnett Place's economic vitality, and Partnership Gwinnett is a key part of our joints efforts, he said."

By working with Partnership Gwinnett, such large-scale, high-wage employers as NCR's global headquarters, Medical Business Services and Bright Ideas have located to Gwinnett Place, Williams said.

The Gwinnett Place CID became the first official financial contributor to Partnership Gwinnett in April 2007.

Find this article at:

Print this page Close

<http://www.ajc.com/news/gwinnett/gwinnett-place-cid-ups-363626.html>