Scholarships awarded

Gwinnett Clean & Beautiful presented the 2006 Environmental Scholarships to the following students:

A $2,000 scholarship sponsored by Gwinnett Clean & Beautiful was presented to Jeffrey Freiberg of Norcross High School.

A $1,000 scholarship sponsored by the Gwinnett Soil and Water Conservation District was presented to Bonnie Greenwood of Parkview High School.

Nurses honored

During National Nurse Week, a number of Gwinnett County Public Schools nurses were honored for their contributions. Ann Bonislowski of Lilburn Elementary was one of three outstanding nurses selected from 237 statewide nominees for the Nursing Excellence Award. In addition, the Georgia PTA named Phyllis Barnes of J.C. Magill Elementary as the state's Outstanding Elementary School Nurse. Claudia Walters of Jackson Elementary and Regina Slide of Oakland School earned honorable mentions.

Fund-raising students

The Alcova Elementary School student council in Dacula raised more than $700 selling candy for the Gwinnett Humane Society. The students also donated towels, blankets, laundry detergent, dog food, cat food, toys, treats, paper towels, collars and leashes.

The Humane Society also received items off its wish list from Girl Scout Troop 20173 in Lilburn and Girl Scout Troop 1635 in Dacula. The Primrose School in Lawrenceville collected items, as well as Taylor Elementary in Lawrenceville.

The Humane Society is seeking volunteers for various programs. Call 770-798-7711 and leave a message.

SAR member honored

Terry Manning of the local Button Gwinnett Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution was awarded the Georgia Society's Bronze Color Guard Medal and the National Society's Silver Color Guard Medal at the state's recent annual awards banquet in Atlanta. The medals are presented for active participation in historical celebrations, grave dedications, parades and other events at the state and national level in a three-year period. Manning is the past commander of the state color guard.

CID chairman elected

Mark Williams was elected to a one-year term as chairman of the Gwinnett Place Community Improvement District last week. Scott Rolston was named vice chairman for a year.

The two are taking over for Tom Wheeler and J. Bruce Williams, respectively. Wheeler and Williams remain board members.

Mark Williams has held leadership positions with the Gwinnett Parks and Recreation Authority and the Cardinal Lake community. He operates Printing Trade Co. Rolston is the general manager of Gwinnett Place.

2 make Eagle Scout

Cory D. Ferris of Troop 500 in Lawrenceville and Shaun C. Dobbs of Troop 568 in Snellville were honored recently for completing requirements for Eagle Scout, the Boy Scouts' highest rank.

Nesbit festival to open
