

The author event at the Collins Hill branch comes at the very beginning of Rule's national book tour, and just one day after the book is scheduled to appear in bookstores nationwide. The Collins Hill branch is located at 455 Camp Perrin Road in Lawrenceville. Barnes & Noble will be on hand to sell copies of the book.

Rule

❖ notable

Gwinnett Place CID reelects officers, adds board member

Named to the board of directors of the Gwinnett Place CID is Marcy Adams, general manager of the Atlanta Marriott at Gwinnett Place. Adams will take over the Board position previously occupied by Bruce Williams, who was one of the original CID organizers. In her role as Marriott Manager, Adams represents the District's second-highest landowner in terms of property value.

Adams

Adams joined the Marriott at Gwinnett Place in 1999, and she has served as controller, resident manager and director of operations. Her professional experience includes a 15-year history of finance and management, beginning with a start in public accounting. She is a graduate of Wichita State University and holds a bachelor's degree in accounting.

In addition to electing Marcy Adams, CID Board Members also elected other officers. They include Mark Williams, re-elected as chairman; Nick Nicolosi, new vice chairman and Glenn Wisdom returning as secretary/treasurer. Williams operates Printing Trade Company; Nicolosi is manager of Gwinnett Place Mall, and Wisdom is store manager with JC Penney at Gwinnett Place Mall.

Gwinnett Magazine captures coveted excellence award

Gwinnett Magazine, published by Tillman Allen Greer, has won the coveted Gold GAMMA Award for General Excellence from the Magazine Association of the Southeast, one of the highest honors the association bestows.

The Magazine Association of the Southeast's GAMMA Awards competition has been recognizing editorial and design excellence in magazine publishing for 18 years. This year, more than 400 publications competed for honors in 14 categories.

GAMMA Awards Judge Leara Rhodes noted that Gwinnett Magazine, a lifestyle publication for Gwinnett County, is "a major cheerleader for all things Gwinnett." "[The magazine] is positive about what people can do in the county from businesses, sports, education to buying homes, and attending events that keep people who are in Gwinnett, entertained in Gwinnett." Rhodes also recognized the magazine's bold design.