Results of Gwinnett Place CID sidewalk workshop available

CID organizers helping plan pedestrian mobility throughout district

(Duluth)—Results from a recent walkability workshop focused on the Gwinnett Place Gwinnett Place Community Improvement District (CID) are now available.

The Gwinnett Place CID, the Gwinnett County Planning Department and the Atlanta Regional Commission conducted a Walkable Community Workshop focusing on the CID's district in mid September. Local business and community leaders were in attendance.

As a result of the workshop, the CID generated a priority list of proposed sidewalk projects and requested Gwinnett County consider the items when allocating sales tax funds for sidewalks in Gwinnett's revitalization areas.

Workshop participants named their top sidewalk priority as Venture Parkway from Pleasant Hill Road to Mall Ring Road along what is know as "motel row". The 2,200 feet of sidewalk is proposed to run along one side of Venture Parkway at an estimated cost of $330,000.

"This workshop was an important tool to help us identify real-world projects that will have a direct benefit for those visiting, working and shopping in our community," said Gwinnett Place CID Executive Director Dave Rosselle.

The workshop report is available online at www.gwinnettplacecid.com and as an attached PDF accompanying this release.
