GPCID Elects Board Members and Officers

James Song and Mark Williams retain their posts

(DULUTH)—The Gwinnett Place Community Improvement District (CID) held a caucus vote during their April Board meeting to elect board members and officers.

Two seats were up for election to a new three year term. James Song was re-elected to the Post 1 seat and Mark Williams won re-election to his Post 4 seat. Officers were also elected for the 2012 Board. Chairman Leo Wiener was elected to retain his post for the new term. Also elected were Vice Chair Marcy Adams and Secretary/Treasurer Mark Williams.

"I am honored that the board has elected me to another term as chairman, I look forward to working with the other officers and board members to continue the great momentum we have built here. I am also pleased to see that Mr. Song and Mr. Williams will be returning to the CID Board, said Chairman Wiener. "Their re-election, and the addition of Kimberly Morphis, will ensure that we continue the outstanding work and leadership we have begun in the Gwinnett Place CID."

The meeting was also the first for newly appointed board member Kimberly Morphis, who took her oath at the beginning of the meeting. Morphis is the appointed representative for the Gwinnett County Board of Commissioners.
