

GWINNETT Daily gap Post

Financial services firm expands footprint into Gwinnett

A ribbon cutting celebration was held for for Goodwin, Wright Northwestern Mutual's new district office in unincorporated Duluth.

Photo: Partnership Gwinnett

Goodwin, Wright Northwestern Mutual has opened a new district office in unincorporated Duluth, marking the firm's sixth location in Georgia.

The full-service office is located at 3805 Crestwood Parkway NW, Suite 140 and is led by District Manager Brett Chestnut. This new location will provide financial planning, investment strategies, and insurance solutions for individuals and businesses across Gwinnett and metro Atlanta.

"I am honored to take on this role as District Manager and to lead our efforts in Gwinnett County," said Chestnut. "It's a privilege to be part of a company that values diversity and is dedicated to serving our community with integrity and excellence. I look forward to building strong relationships and helping our clients achieve their financial goals."

The Duluth location is part of a broader expansion strategy for Goodwin, Wright Northwestern Mutual across Georgia and the metro Atlanta region.

"The opening of our Gwinnett County office is an exciting step forward for Goodwin, Wright Northwestern Mutual," said John Wright CLU, ChFC, Goodwin, Wright Northwestern Mutual Managing Partner. "As our firm continues to expand to meet the growing client demand, we're strengthening our leadership and intentionally broadening the viewpoints and experiences at the table because better thinking leads to better outcomes for our clients."

"Goodwin, Wright Northwestern Mutual's investment in Gwinnett reflects the strength and momentum of our business climate," said Nicole Love Hendrickson, Chairwoman of the Gwinnett County Board of Commissioners. "This new office expands access to important financial services and reinforces Gwinnett as a place where businesses can grow, thrive, and contribute to sustainable prosperity."

Situated within the Gwinnett Place Community Improvement District, the new office also supports the corridor's continued revitalization and economic activity.

"We are pleased to welcome Goodwin, Wright Northwestern Mutual to the Gwinnett Place Community Improvement District," said Joe Allen, Executive Director of the Gwinnett Place CID. "Their presence strengthens the depth of professional services in our corridor and aligns with our work to create a dynamic, connected, and opportunity-rich environment for businesses and employees alike."

The opening of this office reflects Gwinnett's continued appeal to companies seeking a strong platform for expansion, officials said. In 2025, Partnership Gwinnett supported projects that resulted in more than 1,300 new jobs, over 2,100 retained jobs and $395 million in capital investment, highlighting the county's sustained momentum as a center for innovation and long-term economic prosperity.